This year, 78 new colleagues joined the JATCO Group. We will introduce the induction ceremony and the newly added "freshness" through videos and photos!

JATCO Group Joint Induction Ceremony

On April 1st, a sunny day, the JATCO Group Joint Induction Ceremony was held at the Fuji Head Office. 78 colleagues (65 from JATCO, 10 from JATCO Engineering, and 3 from JATCO Plant Tech) have started their working lives. At the induction ceremony, executives and senior employees welcomed the new employees with applause. In his message, CEO Sato quoted Steve Jobs' words, "Stay hungry, stay foolish." He emphasized that this phrase is a necessary spirit in this time of change for the automotive industry, and that it also leads to entrepreneurship. The new recruits looked up and listened intently.

New employees look nervous as they wait for the entrance ceremony to begin.

Mr. Oshio, who joined JATCO and gave the representative greeting, said, "I will work hard to contribute to JATCO as soon as possible."

Mr. Hayami, who joined JATCO Engineering, believes that the company's corporate purpose is to "expand the possibilities of mobility with technology and passion," and will continue to hone his skills as an engineer.

And Mr. Sano, who joined JATCO Plant Tech, said, "I will continue to work hard every day so that I can become a full-fledged member of society as soon as possible." He gave a dignified greeting.

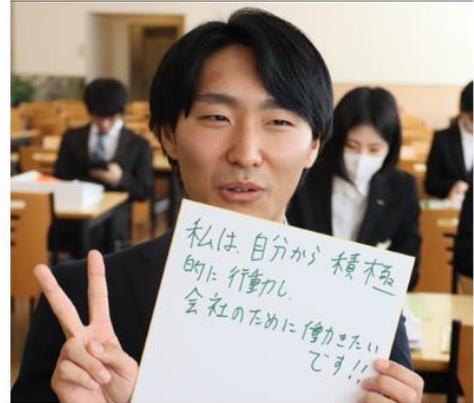

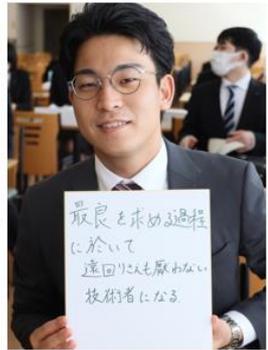

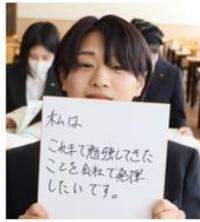

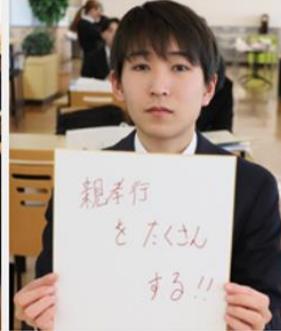

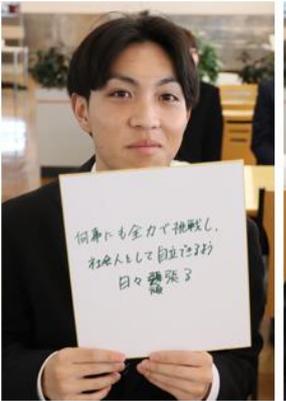

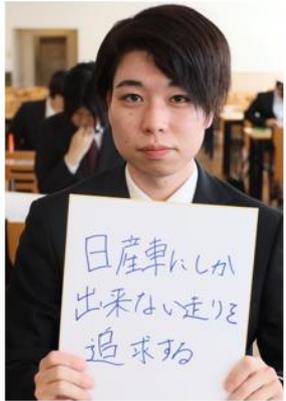

A greeting that made me feel reassured

After the induction ceremony, everyone moved to the cafeteria on the second floor of the head office. Freed from the solemn atmosphere, the tension eased and smiles spread as the group chatted with each other while sitting next to each other.

Paper and pens were placed on the tables, and the rookies wrote down their aspirations and goals. As they prepare to start their careers, the moment they put their thoughts into words must have been a special one. The senior colleagues around them watched over him, offering kind and encouraging words.

Once you have completed their classroom lectures and on-site training, they will be assigned to a department. We look forward to the growth and success of these 78 new employees who have taken a new step forward. We can't wait for the day we can work together.
